TRAINS SLOWER THAN CANAL BOATS

Average Speed of Freight Car 40 Miles a Day Against Barge's More Than 100—State Waterway Offers Other Advantages.

The many advantages to be obtained by a full use of the barge canal will be fully explained to the people during the campaign of publicity and popularization to be carried on during the last two weeks in April by the committee on promotion and development appointed by Senator Henry W. Hill of Buffalo, president of the New York State Waterways Association.

These advantages are very apparent:

First—The lowered rates—and canal rates are about one-half those asked by competitive railroads—are bound to attract shippers and benefit the business man and consumer alike.

Second—The speed maintained by a modern barge is an item that stands in favor of the canal. The operations of last year showed that a suitably constructed barge can move at the rate of 110 miles per day, whereas the average loaded freight train makes but 40 miles in a like period.

Third—Responsible barge lines, maintaining a regular schedule on the channels and operating suitable barges will contribute largely toward the re-establishment of confidence in the waterways.

Fourth—An up to date terminal system affording all proper facilities to aid in the transfer of cargoes and the storage of goods will give the canal a type of service unequalled on any waterway in the world.

Adequate terminals and modern freight handling devices are vital and a consistent policy of terminal completion and development on the part of the state government will do much toward inspiring confidence in the canal on the part of shipping interests. Dockwalls have already been constructed at all important shipping points and mechanical devices for loading and unloading the barges, with freight sheds and warehouses for the storage of the goods are available. Furthermore most of the important terminals will have spurs connecting them with the railroad lines, so that produce may be shipped inland and off the canal at joint rail and water rates.

The water route is admittedly more efficient and economical for the transportation of heavy commodities, such as iron ore, coal, lumber, etc., than are the rail lines. The barge canal, however, will not be limited to this but with an adequate terminal system can offer a service which is parallel to, though not identical with that rendered by the competitive railroads.

Foremost among the reasons recommending the waterway to popular consideration is the fact that it is the only modern waterway connecting the productive centers of the middle west with the Atlantic Ocean. Just what this means to commerce can be better grasped when it is considered that in one year Lake Erie floated 137,329,258 tons of freight, while 1,439 vessels were operating on the Great Lakes. Furthermore the records available will show that out of all the freight moved on Lake Erie only a very small portion of it moved through the Welland Canal into Lake Ontario. In fact Lake Ontario floated but 836,930 tons, while Lake Huron carried 7,406,757 tons, showing that by far most of the freight on the Great Lakes is centered on Lake Erie and that a large part of it was moved by rail to and from this body of water.

The barge canal is a mighty link in our national transportation system and as time goes on, it will continue to contribute its share in a greater portion toward the firm establishment of an economic and efficient service that will work a direct benefit upon our industries and foreign shipping.

RUM SEIZED SAID TO BE FREDERICK T. LEY'S

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 6.—Ten cases of wine, whiskey and gin which the police assert two men were transporting to the home of Frederick T. Ley, wealthy builder, No. 280 Park avenue, and a Ford delivery wagon, in which they were being conveyed, were seized by the police of the West 68th Street Station last night. The two men were arrested.

According to the police, Mr. Ley recently moved to Park avenue from a hotel and left the liquor at a friend's home. Last night he decided to transfer it. Paul Decenzio and Bert Kaprin, No. 442 East 69th street, employes of the builder, went to the friend's house with the delivery wagon and got it.

HIGH SPEED OF PISTONS REQUIRES CORRECT OIL

"Where most motorists make their mistakes," says a garage proprietor of long experience, "is in thinking that a cheap oil will do the work of a good oil.

"Take the average automobile traveling at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Each piston is traveling up and down in its cylinder at the rate of twelve feet a second. If it were not for a little film of oil, .003 of an inch thick, on the cylinder walls this speed would produce so much heat because of friction that the piston would almost instantly bind in the cylinder.

"It takes an oil of real body to stand up under the strain produced by the 1890 strokes of the piston every minute. Cheap oil will not do. It hasn't the body to hold it up and make it a safeguard against friction.

"In addition to this condition, there is intense heat, 3,000 degrees of temperature are produced at each explosion. The cooling system carries off a part of this heat, but the oil must also do its share. It must be of sufficient character and body to stand this heat without thinning down to a consistency where it will no longer prevent friction. The cheap oil may stand up under the friction alone, but the intense heat of the engine so thins it that it no longer lubricates properly.

"What results?

"Burned out bearings, scored cylinder walls, excessive carbon and a number of engine troubles that are expensive to repair. And all the time, friction is wearing away every moving part in your engine.

"There are three things you must do to prevent engine troubles and premature wear of your car.

1. Use only oil that is nationally known as a high grade oil.

2. Use only the correct grade of this oil for your car.

3. Drain and refill your crankcase at least every 1,000 miles.

"Correct lubrication is one of the most important items in the running of your car. It is more important even than keeping your tires properly inflated, because the lack of correct lubrication can cause repairs that are much more expensive than tires.

"It always pays to buy good oil. It may cost you a few cents more per quart, but your saving in repair bills will be many times greater than any money you can save by buying cheap oils."

NEW AMERICANS GIVE A PARTY

Members of Night School Americanization Class Show Results of Good Teaching in Well Rendered Program — Educational Leaders Present.

There was a party at the Kingston High School Wednesday evening that was as enjoyable as it was unusual. This party was given by members of the Americanization class of the night school, our "New Americans," to their teachers, our Old Americans," in the kitchen of the building. And it was given in the kitchen because there were refreshments served, fruit salad, finger rolls and butter and home made cake and coffee, provided by the class members. The tables were most attractive. Each table had as its center piece either a silver candle stick or candelabra with lighted candles. At either end of the tables were clusters of little American flags. Tied to each flag stick by either a red, white or blue ribbon was a pretty place card with decorations of spring flowers.

At two of the tables were seated the members of the class with Principal Cullen, head of the night school, presiding over one, and Miss Van Wagenen, the inspiring head of the Americanization class presiding over the other. At the other two tables were Superintendent Michael, Mr. Crowley of the Americanization Bureau of the State Department of Education, Principal Meagher, Miss Holmes, Mr. Service, Mr. Woodward, of the high school faculty, and the members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., and of the Federation of Women's Clubs, who have assisted in the work of the Americanization classes.

Before the serving of refreshments by the class members a very appropriate blessing on the food and the occasion was asked by the members of the class, reciting in unison.

At each table there was a program of what was to happen after the refreshments had been enjoyed. These programs, like the invitations, had been written by the members of the class, and they were especially well done. The writer of this article was so fortunate as to have a program written by the Chinese lad who came into our schools only a year ago knowing not a word of English.

Mr. Cullen, who always knows how to keep everybody happy and smiling, announced the different numbers on the program.

Mr. Weidis, who in 1921 knew no word of English, thanked the teachers for their help in the school, especially in the learning of the American language, and did it very well indeed.

"Great Americans," were told about as follows: Mrs. Annie Marcus, presenting a picture of George Washington, told briefly but well of the first American president, the "Father of his Country." Mrs. Mary Kenik, showing Roosevelt's picture, told of that other American president who made history in the Spanish American war and afterward. Mrs. Cohen, bearing aloft the portrait of Abraham Lincoln, "Honest Abe," the sixteenth president of the United States told of his freeing of the negroes as the outcome of the Civil war.

Mr. Bianco read several wise and useful "Sayings of Franklin."

Mr. Feliciano, read excellently "The Americans' Creed," quite a difficult task in English.

Mrs. Schwartz gave a fine, short sketch of "The City of Kingston," that both old and new American could be proud of.

Mrs. Dien gave very well a brief history of "Our Flag."

A pretty little poem, "Trees," was nicely read by Mrs. Munitz.

Mrs Levine read a short sketch of "Our Home," that was excellent.

"The True American," as described by Mrs. Ray Marcus, was an American that we could all be proud of.

One of the best numbers on the program was in the form of a letter or report, telling of the work of the class the past year and the hope for further class work in the future, given by Mrs. Tucker.

Then "America," was read very well indeed by Sun Mon Woo, who last year lived somewhere near Canton, China.

This part of the program closed with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner," on the violin, by Isidore Schwartz, all standing during the number which was very nicely played.

Every number on the program was enthusiastically applauded as it deserved to be.

After Principal Cullen had explained how it had been the effort of the teachers to help the members of the Americanization class to become good Americans, in the same spirit that they, the teachers, would have liked to be helped if they had been in some other country, he called on a truly "Good American," Superintendent Michael, to speak. He both praised and encouraged the class.

Next Mr. Cullen called upon Mr. Crowley of the State Department who told the "New Americans," as he so fittingly called the class members, how the whole state was trying to help all those who were trying to become Americans, to become such Americans as we will all be proud of and thankful for, and also that the state was further trying to help the thousands of people in our own state who could not speak English at all even though they had been for some time. It was these people who had not tried to learn the American language or understand American laws and customs, that Mr. Crowley called foreigners, not at all those who were trying to become Americans. He also congratulated the board of education of our city and especially the teachers of the Americanization class on the fine results of the study of this class.

Principal Cullen then dismissed the party with his "blessing," but the memory of the happy event will never be dismissed from the minds of those present.

THE ELLENVILLE FAIR.

The men and women who have attended the Ellenville fair and other county fairs for many years will be surprised to learn that "a usual feature" at such places has been a show "in which scantily clad women appeared in a tent to which only men were admitted." Yet such a condition must have existed, because no less an authority than the Rev. O. R. Miller of Albany, secretary of the New York Civic League, says so. Therefore, Mr. Miller urged the recent New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to fight against permitting agricultural fairs.

In Ulster county, the best judges of what transpires at the Ulster County Agricultural Fair at Ellenville each year are the residents of Ulster county who attend it. Perhaps their morals are so perverted they have overlooked the wicked show described by Moralist Miller. But what of the men and women who are exhibitors at the agricultural fair and through whose unselfish efforts the continuance of the fair has been made possible? Is it possible they, too, have become moral perverts whom the New York Civic League must suppress?

So far as Ulster county is concerned, the members of the Ulster County Agricultural Society are the leading men and women of their respective communities. They are among the most active members of the churches whose pastors through experience have learned to depend on them for church support and local civic betterment. They never have permitted and would not allow a show of the kind described by the New York Civic League, secretary before the members of the Methodist Conference. Of the members of the Conference who heard his wild assertion, how many knew from personal visits to agricultural fairs that Miller was overreaching the mark, and how many of those who had the courage to stand up and denounce him. And if they never had visited an agricultural fair in their own community, how do ministers expect to preach understandingly to their congregations about their recreations and pleasures without knowing what they are saying?

The agricultural fair supplies an important link in farming development because it allows producers, dealers and manufacturers of many commodities to compare products and experiences, but what can the agriculturalist do since Moralist Miller has decided that such fairs are immoral? What rights can any farmer possibly possess which a professional reformer like Miller is bound to respect? In his self-righteous judgment, the proper place for the farmer is on the farm.

But the Albany moralist still holds the whip hand over the farmer, whom he may yet compel to pay the cost of suppressing his own county fair. If the recently organized Allied Citizens of America is intended to work for civic virtue, it must work to abolish the county fair—and not only work but pay cash to the big Miller-Anderson virtue fund that is to be used, after paying salaries, in influencing legislation.

Do the farmers of Ulster county intend to stand by Miller? Do they intend to stand for him?

MONOPOLISTS IN LIBERTY.

The most recent attack on freedom of the press and free speech is more remarkable when it is considered that it comes from the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church whose membership is composed of clergymen. Their position is inconsistent. They say "it is intolerable that the American doctrine of freedom of speech and freedom of the press should, by many newspapers throughout the country, the most offensive one being published in New York city, be stretched and perverted into covering open warfare upon the sovereignty of the nation and conspiracy to defeat the Constitution to an extent more aggravated and more serious in potential menace than the offenses for which various publications were ordered suspended during the war."

Of course, the ministerial memorial had reference to public discussion and condemnation of Prohibition as manifested in the Eighteenth Amendment and the various enforcement acts. But how does the memorial square with the facts? How does is compare with the ministerial attitude on other matters? As long as the public and the newspapers praise Prohibition will the ministers praise and encourage free speech and freedom of the press? Is it only when the public or the newspapers condemn Prohibition that their liberty of expression becomes "open warfare," "conspiracy" and a "menace?"

Do not the same ministers condemn from their pulpits and elsewhere certain policies and laws which are just as much "the supreme law of the land" as Prohibition? In so doing are not these ministers guilty of "open warfare," and "conspiracy" and do they not become a "menace?" Do educational training and cut of cloth worn in clothing give a monopoly to any class of American citizens in the discussion of public questions or laws? When they do, American liberty will be something which may be considered as belonging only in the prehistoric ages and even then open discussion on the subject probably will be curtailed.

1. What do crabs eat?

They feed on sundry marine animals, fish—both dead and alive—and on almost any decaying animal matter that comes their way.

2. What makes some nasturtium leave have marks like a squirmy track in lighter color?

This isn't a natural mark, but shows the trail of a tiny caterpillar, a leaf-miner, which hatches on the leaf surface and then tunnels a wavering passage between the upper and lower surfaces of the leaf, eating as it goes. The pulp being thus removed, a whitish mark is left where the two layers of epidermis, or skin, comes together. Other leaves than nasturtium are sometimes eaten by the same type of caterpillar, one of the Tineids.

3. Please identify a bird that reaches Montana about May 15 and leaves September 15. Slightly smaller than bluebird, male rusty or bronze black, white wing bar, female grayish black. Nests on ground, about 5 eggs, pale greenish blue. A fine singer, often sings while hovering in air. Feeds on insects, weed seeds and some grain.

A very satisfactory description of the Lark Bunting, Calamospiza melanocorys. There is considerable difference in the looks of the male in winter. The bird is known in Texas and a region running north of Texas, as well as west of the Rockies. Usually shy in disposition. An excellent description in Bailey's Handbook of the Birds of the Western U. S. at page 377, with plate.

Good News for Farmers!
We have a new Du Pont Farm Dynamite for sale.

DU PONT Chemical Engineers have developed a new dynamite, Dumorite—and it is going to save you a lot of money. It will blow out 1/3 more stumps per dollar—blast 1/3 more boulders per dollar—plant 1/3 more trees per dollar.

Dumorite shoots, under ordinary conditions, stick for stick with regular 40% dynamite. And at the price of 100 1¼ x 8-inch sticks of "40%", you can buy 135 to 140 1¼ x 8-inch sticks of Dumorite. In addition, Dumorite is absolutely non-freezing and positively will not cause headache.

Your dynamite dollar is worth $1.35 at our store when you buy Dumorite. This makes land clearing a much less expensive operation.

Drop in the next time you are near our store and let us estimate the cost of your blasting jobs. We can show you the way to cut your dynamite costs nearly one-third.

ROCKEFELLER, SR., STILL ON JOB

At 83 He Is Mentally Vigorous And Retains Active Interest In World's Greatest Business—Optimistic As To Business Outlook.

Standing head and shoulders above the great financiers and industrial kings of the world is John D. Rockefeller, Sr., the man whose vision and genius brought into being the greatest business concern the world has ever seen. Much is known of the works of John D. Rockefeller, the oil king, the philanthropist, the business genius. Little is known of John D. Rockefeller, the man. He has shunned interviews and avoided contact with the public.

Here is the first of a series of three stories about the aged oil king, which reveal John D. Rockefeller, the man as he is now, at the age of 83, still keeping a light touch on the reins of his gigantic business.

By Mildred Morris. Copyrighted 1922 By International News Service.

By telegraph to The Freeman.

Ormond Beach, Fla., April 6.—At 83 John D. Rockefeller is still on the job.

I have just seen the master of the world's greatest business, and talked with him.

The aged Standard Oil magnate has been inaccessible to interviewers.

In company with Dr. Frank P. Corrigan of Cleveland, Ohio, just returned from a tour of South America, made in behalf of the American college of Surgeons, I spent an evening with him and had a "rare close-up" of John D. Rockefeller, human being.

Although past four-score in years, he has lost none of his mental vigor.

Physically, he is fit—surrounded by every attention, he looks good for years to come. His handclasp is strong, his voice clear—I heard it sing the Doxology in robust tones.

At 83 he keeps in active touch with the gigantic business that has made his name synonymous with riches the world over.

He is optimistic about the business outlook—this man of vast wealth and mighty power.

Reminded that dark clouds hover over the world; that events and conditions give little ground for cheer, he said:

"Don't worry. The darkness is only temporary. The world is coming out of it all right."

The man of billions is thrifty of speech. He volunteered few opinions during the evening. Most of his comments, brought out by the conversation, shed light on his views.

Once, when the business depression was mentioned, he said:

"We can only watch events."

An opinion expressed by Corrigan, he supplemented with the remark:

"Yes, that's true—we need a return to the rule of common sense."

It was suggested that the coal strike would not turn out to be a strike of importance.

"You can't tell yet," said the man who has millions invested in coal mines.

To the opinion that "it was a good time to strike from the standpoint of industries, with all hard hit by the depression, and a large part closed down, he said:

"Yes, it would seem so."

Dr. Corrigan expressed the belief that the "Russian failure had been an object lesson to the rest of the world," referring to the soviet government.

"Yes, that is true," said the oil financier.

The aged multi-millionaire had come to the Hotel Ormonde just across the road from his winter home, to call on Dr. Corrigan, and incidentally to hear the closing Sunday night concert of the hotel orchestra.

He was accompanied by the two devoted women members of his household—Mrs. Evans, his niece and Mrs. Worley, another relative—his grandson, John D. III, son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the young man's tutor.

The famous rich man listened with deep interest as the young Cleveland surgeon, an associate of his old physician and friend, Dr. Hiram Biggar, described the wonderful progress of medical science in South America and the results accomplished there by the Rockefeller Foundation—the philanthropy the oil financier has made the great work of his old age.

"That's pleasant news," he said with gratification, as the physician declared the Rockefeller Foundation had done more for world peace than "thirty Carnegie peace foundations could have done."

Once, after praise of the foundation's work in South America countries, he said:

"We have been fortunate in the selection of men."

The physician, relating how "clean up" of disease centers had raised real estate values in many towns and stimulated building activities, said:

"It's proved beneficial not only from the standpoint of health, but also from that of business. It is good business."

"It's all so simple if they could only see it," said the Standard Oil magnate.

He agreed with the view that the country "doesn't yet appreciate the fact that the Standard Oil Company is responsible for the United States being in the oil business at all."

The aged oil king gave his opinion on the young people of today.

Was the younger generation weaker in fibre than his? Was it jazzing itself to ruin, as the sermonizers declare?

"It is in the younger generation to succeed just as much as it was in my generation and the generations beyond that," he answered. "The world today offers better opportunities to the young people than ever before."

"Work hard and look forward," is Rockefeller's advice to the young ambitious to follow the road to success.

"Always look forward," he said to me as he shook my hand in parting.

MOMBACCUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, April 6.—Charles Hartelius has a fine batch of early chicks.

We wondered if the weather was playing a practical joke when it held up the mail on April 1.

Miss Selma Hartelius returned to her position at Napanoch on Thursday last.

Miss Dorothy Goldberg called on Mrs. L. Van Etten Sunday.

Many trees were injured in the recent ice storm.

Miss Selma Hartelius and Harold Van Etten spent a very pleasant evening Wednesday at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. Quick. Delicious refreshments were served and piano and violin selections enjoyed by all.

Everett Bell of Napanoch was a caller on friends in this place recently.

The Hartelius family entertained a relative from Ellenville for a short visit last week.

Harold Van Etten had dinner at the home of his uncle, and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. DePuy, on Saturday.

SAVINGS AND LOAN SHARES MADE MORE ATTRACTIVE

Recent action by Congress which exempts until 1927 the income up to $300 received from shares of savings and loan associations makes particularly inviting the sixty-first series of shares of the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association, for which thirty of the members of the association have been making an active canvass. The new shares commence Friday evening, April 7, when first payments become due.

The action of Congress was taken in recognition of the safety which such shares offer to the investor and as an incentive to investment which from time memorial has been regarded as the foremost of all investments—the houses and homes of the people. Home-building had its set-back during the World War, but everywhere legislative bodies have realized the necessity of encouraging it with the result that securities of the kind afforded by shares of the Kingston Co-operative Savings and Loan Association have become most attractive.

Two varieties of shares are offered by the association: Investment shares of $100 each, for which one lump-sum payment is made, and installment shares, which call for the payment of from one dollar per month up.

The number of out of town members of the Kingston Association who have invested in both classes of certificates is surprisingly large, and includes quite a number whose residence is outside New York state.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ROBBIE ROBIN

"It is so sweet," chirped Robbie Robin, "that almost every one knows me by sight at least. And most people know my voice when they hear it and the different songs and calls I have.

"I Do Enjoy Sprinkling."

"I am glad of that for I like many people. I like friends and I like to be about. I am naturally sociable and I am not a snob.

"I've a fine voice and I look quite smart, I'm told, but I am not a snob. And I wouldn't be a snob for anything.

"A snob is a creature who puts on airs and who thinks he is better than other creatures. And I know what I think of a snob."

"Do tell me," said Mrs. Robbie.

"I think a snob is a foolish creature," said Robbie Robin. "Any creature who thinks he is better than some one else is foolish.

"How does he know he is better than any one else? He doesn't know it. Perhaps he may have more money or better clothes than the next person, but he may not have any right to be a snob.

"He may be mean and cross and selfish. Or he may be silly and vain.

"A snob is always rather apt to be like that. And those who have a right to be snobs never are."

"That sounds very strange," said Mrs. Robbie. "Pray explain."

"Well," said Robbie, "any one who is fine enough to be a snob is too fine to be a snob. A snob is such a silly, conceited thing that any one who has the right to put on airs wouldn't do it because that would make such a person at once become a silly, conceited person."

"Oh, I see, chirp, chirp, I see," said Mrs. Robbie.

"I would never be a snob," said Robbie. "I believe in being friendly and sociable. I'll go walking and hopping on green grass whether it is the grass of a person who owns a fortune or whether it is the grass of a person who has very few extra pennies lying around.

"But oh, Mrs. Robbie, how I do enjoy sprinkling myself. I wish that people could give me drinking dishes of water which are big enough for me to bathe in, too.

"A great many do this, and I am very thankful. It is kind of people to give us drinking dishes and bath tubs. But I also wish they would be quite careful to put these dishes where they are pretty sure that cats cannot get at them, for cats may come for us when we're not on our guard and when we're bathing and having a fine time.

"But dear Mrs. Robbie, though we are so fond of a good bath as often as we can get one we're very bad housekeepers. They say our nests are considered very dirty, for we don't bother much about how we build them. We build very carelessly and we use weed stalks or bits of dried grass or mud or anything else that is handy."

"Yes, that is true," said Mrs. Robbie, "but I am fond of my untidy home. I sit on two broods of eggs through the summer and sit on four eggs at a time.

"But I stay in the same nest. Even though it is a bit untidy I like it!

"But I'm not a fancy creature."

"Oh, Mrs. Robbie, I've been told that there are some fine worms in the lawn three places down from here. Let us fly there and have a little meal."

"A Little Meal."

"I don't believe it will be a little meal," said Mrs. Robbie. "We're not strong for little meals. We're great for big meals.

"How many worms we can eat! And how we love to gobble them down whole!

"We have good appetites, you and I."

"Indeed we have," said Robbie.

So they flew off and had a fine meal and then Robbie Robin sang a song of joy, and this was what he sang:

I love the whole world and I love every one.
To sing and to eat are both lots of fun
I wouldn't be silly and act like a snob,
I'm no cousin would and, and least of all Bob!

"For that," he said, "is my name when I'm making up songs, as it rhymes more easily than Robbie."

Properly Refused Citizenship.

Thirty-seven applicants for American citizenship were recently rejected in the federal courts of Boston, Mass., on the grounds that all had claimed exemption from military service during the World war on the plea that they were aliens. The list included Greeks, Swedes, Russians, Irish, Norwegians, Turks and Armenians.

All Explained.

Mrs. B.—"I'm certainly glad to make your acquaintance." Mrs. L.—"I've heard so much about you." Mrs. B.—"Oh, so you're the one who enticed my servant girl away from me last fall."—Boston Globe.

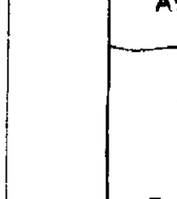
SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

For variety try a:

Vegetable Curry.—Mix one cupful each of cooked carrots, potatoes, white turnips, cut into cubes, one cupful of canned peas and heat together in a double boiler. Pour over them one cupful of white sauce in which one tablespoonful of onion juice and one fourth of a teaspoonful of curry has been fixed and cooked. On a large earthen plate pile up a border of mashed potato which has been seasoned with butter and milk, more highly seasoned than usual. Set plate in the oven until the border is nicely browned. Pour the vegetable curry into the potato border and sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley.



Veal Rolls.—With a wooden potato masher or mallet pound slices of veal steak to one-fourth of an inch in thickness cut in pieces three by five inches. Chop the trimmings with one-eighth as much fat salt pork. Add by measure half as much bread crumbs as meat, season highly with salt, pepper, poultry seasoning, onion and lemon juice with four fresh mushrooms chopped fine. Moisten the mixture with beaten egg and hot water as moist as possible and still hold its shape. Spread each piece of steak with a thin layer nearly to the edge, roll tight and fasten with small skewers. Shape the remaining mixture into balls and cook with the rolls. Dredge with flour and cook a light brown in butter. Place in a casserole, cover with thin cream and bake an hour.

Belmont Minced Chicken.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one-fourth of a cupful of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, one and one-half cupfuls of chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point, season with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and a teaspoonful of paprika. Add one cupful of cream, one cupful of minced chicken, two-thirds of a cupful of cooked sweetbread cubes, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of truffles or chicken livers. Let stand in a double boiler to heat. Serve in a dish with mashed potato piped around the edge. Brown in a hot oven.

NEVER before has the amazing Knight sleeve-valve motor been available in so fine a car at so low a price. Europe uses the Knight motor in her most famous and expensive cars. Now Willys engineering, Willys quantity production, put it in the reach of all in a car equally famous, but far less costly.

The Motor

The Willys-Knight motor is the highest development of the Knight sliding sleeve-valve principle. It gets more power out of less gas than any other motor of its size and weight. It is free from valve trouble, free from carbon trouble, smooth, quiet, flexible. Scientific tests and driver experience show that it grows more powerful with use. And its life-limit has never yet been ascertained.

The Car

The Willys-Knight Car is especially designed to match the motor in long life and distinction. Graceful, refined, dignified, its sturdy steel chassis beats off jolts and jars and holds the body permanently free from rattles and squeaks. Vigilant springs translate the roll of the road into undulating ease. It is fleet, comfortable, responsible—and a sound investment.

Skin unsightly

—caused by errors of diet

A well-known skin specialist says that eruptions are "signal flags of danger" often indicating errors in diet.

Indeed eruptions are so frequently associated with faulty habits of eating and improper digestion that the first thing to do is to see that our food is right.

Fresh yeast is a wonderful corrective food for these skin disorders. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in the elements which improve appetite and digestion and which keep the intestines clean of poisons.

Physicians and hospitals all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast for skin disorders and boils. It gets right at the basic cause of these complaints.

Eat 2 to 3 cakes of Fleischmann's fresh yeast daily before or between meals to keep your skin healthy. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

THIRD WIFE CLAIMS GRAFTON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 6.—A third girl Polly Lorayne, former actress, today claimed as her husband Joseph Donald Grafton, son of a Pittsburgh furniture manufacturer, whose alleged bigamy is being investigated by the grand jury.

The other two claimants for Grafton's affections are Peggy Davis, 17-year-old "Follies" girl, and Ellen Curley McIntyre, of Youngstown, Ohio, who claim he married them last November and December, the ceremonies being separated by only a seventeen day interval.

"Don took me to Pittsburgh where we resided for five months," said Miss Lorayne who claims she is wife Number one because he took out a license to marry me in this city on February 1, 1921 but told me a ceremonial marriage was not necessary.

"He introduced me to his father and brother as his wife. He even introduced me to A. A. Shepherd, who lived with us as a boarder, as Mrs. Grafton. I am surprised to learn that Shepherd was a witness to his marriage to Peggy Davis."

Bigamy complaints against Grafton were laid before the grand jury by Miss McIntyre, really wife Number two, and Mrs. Capitola Laird, mother of Peggy Davis, the third girl Grafton is alleged to have married.

MR. AND MRS. INNESS AGAIN HONORED IN FLORIDA

The Tampa Museum of Fine Arts entertained at a reception Wednesday evening in their art rooms in the city hall, honoring Mr and Mrs. George Inness, Jr.

The rooms were decorated with spring flowers in vases, while potted plants formed the background. On exhibition were a number of Mr. Inness's most admired pictures, a treat which was highly appreciated by the guests. Special lighting arrangements had been made so that each oil painting showed to best advantages.

As the guests entered the door they were greeted by Mrs. T. L. Karn and Walter Collins. In the receiving line was the president of the association, Ike Maas, Mrs. A. C. Clews and Mr. and Mrs. George Inness.

A special feature of the entertainment was the rendering of several groups of songs by Signora Hallie De Incca, accompanied by Mrs. W. R Carman, pianist, and Mr. Bernhardt, violinist.

Art critics were most enthusiastic in their praise of the paintings displayed by Mr. Inness.

A few are reminiscent of the work of his father, but the other ten show a depature from this style that in no way detracts from the beauty of the scenes. A winter visitor to Florida with a home in the vicinity of Tarpon Springs, Mr. Inness's pictures show familiar scenes to the guests beholding their beauty.—Tampa, Fla., Daily Times.

Cantilever Shoes Benefit Weak Arches

We claim that if everyone would start wearing Cantilever Shoes at sixteen years of age, there would be few, if any, men and women with weak feet, fallen arches, etc. However, if we didn't say this early enough to help you keep your arches strong, we can help you now—unless you ought first to consult a foot specialist. In that event, we can help him to help you.

The number of people in this country who have weak feet, or a kindred foot trouble, is so many millions that we hesitate to publish it. Practically all of these cases could have been avoided.

EXERCISE MAKES STRENGTH

Your foot arch is composed of small bones held up by ligaments, muscles and tendons. Keep these healthy by free circulation and natural exercise, and Nature will see that those arch bones never fail. Cantilever Shoes permit this free circulation and unrestricted foot action by being shaped like the foot, flexible like the foot and arched like the foot. They support a weak foot, not uncomfortably but flexibly—while Nature restores strength. They're good-looking shoes and reasonably priced. Sold in this city only by

COLLEGE BOYS EARN OWN WAY

Half of University Students in U. S. Self-Supporting.

CUBAN TELLS HOW HE DID IT

Yale Survey Gives Fair Indication of Conditions as They Prevail in Most American Universities—52 Per Cent Earning Their Way, at Least in Part—Waiting on Table for Board Is Favorite Way of Helping Out—Odd Jobs Pay for Books.

Young man, do you want to go to college? Say Yale or Harvard, or Columbia, or Cornell, or Northwestern, or any of the big American colleges?

"Yes," you say, "that would be fine. But I haven't the money."

You don't need the money.

Make the money as you go along. Half the college students in America are earning their way through college at least in part government experts have found.

A trip to Yale shows you how they do it.

A questionnaire was sent out by the bureau of appointments of Yale to determine how many students were paying their own way by working.

Half Working Way.

President Angell of Yale says that half of the students of the college answered and of these 52 per cent were working their way through.

One of them is Antonio Fresnada. He is a Cuban and he started under a great handicap.

Fresnada is now a Yale junior. He says it is a cinch for a young man to work his way through college.

"My freshman year was the hardest," says Fresnada. "The only thing I knew was manual labor.

"I waited on table for my board, took care of a furnace and shoveled snow from the sidewalks for my room. I sold Sunday papers, acted as agent for a laundry and at various other jobs made enough to pay for books and clothes.

"Vacations I worked as section hand on the railroad and carried bricks.

"But I stuck to it—while other fellows were becoming athletic heroes and social lights.

"It is easier now. Tutoring and typewriting furnish me with enough to get by on.

"I pay $2 a week for my room. My board costs me $11 a week, tuition $6.50, books and papers $2, clothing $4, laundry $1.50, incidentals $3. This totals $30, and I find no difficulty in earning it.

"The experience has been valuable to me. It has taught me that if I believe in a thing I can do it."

Many Self-Supporting.

Yale is not an exception in this for the sons of rich men. It counts as self-supporting students by the hundreds.

However exceptional qualities are reminiscent of the student who works his way through. The leisure time exempt from classes and studies that more fortunate students devote to sports or pleasure the self-supporting man must spend in earning his way.

A bureau of appointments whose chief aim is the aid of needy students is maintained.

The bureau works in two ways—by granting loans and college scholarships and acting as a clearing house for jobs.

Where the bureau after careful investigation of the applicant deems that a young's character and secondary school record have been of sufficient promise an allowance of $120 of the total tuition fee of $150 for the first term may be made. The allowance for the second term of the school year and for succeeding terms depends on the student's academic standing.

For the first two years these allowances are made with the understanding that no obligation of repayment is incurred.

After the first two years noninterest-bearing notes are taken for the remitted sum or payment on which is due five years after graduation.

HUSBAND TO WASHTUBS

Court Sentences Him to Help Wife There Until He Gets a Job.

Judge George R. Heffy of Huntington, W. Va., established a precedent when he sentenced Jake Alexander, defendant in Domestic Relations court, to duty at his wife's washtubs.

Alexander was arrested by Sheriff Williams on complaint of Hattie Alexander his wife, that he failed to support her and that instead of being a help he was dependent upon her earnings from washing clothes.

When arraigned, Alexander pleaded lack of employment. After hearing the evidence of the wife, Judge Heffley ordered that the court, after hearing all the evidence is of the opinion that the defendant is guilty as charged. He is ordered released from custody of the sheriff and directed to return home and assist his wife with her washing until such time as he can find employment elsewhere that will enable him to properly support his family."

Tubful of Honey From Hollow Tree.

A washtub full of honey has been distributed among friends by Mr. and Mrs. Jay Carty of Gibbstown, N. J. Carty was cutting down a large tree when he struck a hollow spot and found the trunk filled with honey.

Poet and Plowman.

Poets in all ages have sung of the plowman. And there is much poetry in plowing. If the poet can sit under a tree at a sufficient distance from the plowman to make the latter's language to the mule inaudible.—Houston Post.

AX IS BEST FOR EGG EATERS

Habit Spreads From One Fowl to Another and Unless Checked Affects Whole Flock.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Egg eating sometimes becomes a serious vice in a flock, the fowls becoming very fond of eggs when they have learned to eat them. The habit spreads from fowl to fowl and unless checked will often spread through the whole flock. Egg eating usually begins through accident by eggs being broken or frozen. See that the nests are properly supplied with straw or other nesting material and have them darkened, so that if an egg is accidentally broken the fowls will not be likely to discover it. Supply plenty of lime in the form of oyster shells bone or similar substances to insure a firm shell. As soon as it is discovered that a fowl has formed the habit, the fowl should be removed to prevent the spread of the vice. Once formed it is difficult to eradicate, and the safest remedy is the death penalty, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Fowls sometimes pluck feathers from themselves and from each other. This is often caused by too close confinement, by the presence of insect pests, or by improper feeding. When some of the fowls of a flock have formed the habit slightly, a wide range with a change of diet including a plentiful supply of animal feed and freedom from insect pests will usually correct the evil. Above all, see that the fowls have plenty of inducement to exercise. If the habit becomes well formed it is very troublesome and may necessitate the killing of some of the fowls in order to stop it.

YEARLY EGG LAYING PERIOD

Increase Made at Massachusetts Experiment Station by Selection of Pullets.

Dr. H. D. Goodale research biologist in poultry at the Massachusetts Experimental station stated that the yearly egg laying period of a flock of hens at that place had been increased to an average of 56 days by egg selection from early laying pullets. This selection has resulted in an increase in the number of winter eggs, raising the annual egg average from 125 to 150. Poultry breeders should aim to eliminate broody hens from breeding stock, also the birds that loaf longest in the winter months.

Many Varieties of Crows

Many birds are crows—that is, they are members of good standing of the standing in the crow family—and they are all more or less "personalities," and all are remarkable for some talent or some vice. There are the raven, the rook, the blue, the fish, the green jay, the magpie, the jackdaw and many others. The crow has his kin scattered all over the world.

GAS COMPANY REPLACES POLE

Sheriff Kolts and Deputy Sheriff Jocelyn Attend Ceremonies of Installation in Front of Dwyer Home on Broadway.

Several days ago when the Kingston Gas & Electric Company attempted to erect a new pole at the corner of Broadway and Rogers street in front of the property owned by Robert J. Dwyer, and occupied by Edward Casidin, the proceedings were stopped when Miss Angela Dwyer sat in the post hole that had been dug by the gas company squad and defied the men to remove her or erect the pole.

Victory perched on the Dwyer forces that day, but on April 4 the gas company forces deployed before Justice Rosch and obtained a court order permitting them to erect the pole. This morning Sheriff Kolts and Deputy Sheriff Seth Jocelyn were enrolled under the gas company banner and the parade started down Broadway to the scene of war.

The gas company employes unterrified by the recent defeat, swung their shovels to such good advantage that the hole they had excavated the other day and then filled up again, was again dug and the preparations to erect the pole were started under guard of the sheriff and deputy sheriff.

At this juncture Robert J. Dwyer appeared on the scene and the sheriff served on him the court order. Mr. Dwyer, it is said, hastened away to obtain legal advice and during his absence the work of erecting the pole proceeded, and at the time this was written the pole was in place and wires strung.

The gas company officials stated that the old pole was broken off two feet under ground and its replacement was imperative as it carried a heavy load of street lighting circuits and are fixtures. If it had fallen serious damage might have been done and Justice Rosch granted the temporary injunction in the interest of public safety.

This ends chapter two of the "Romance of the Pole."

POUGHKEEPSIE HIGH SCHOOL INK SLINGERS SUSPENDED

No appeal for reinstatement will be made by the six students of the Poughkeepsie High School who were suspended yesterday as the result of an ink-throwing contest in a trigonometry class. They will wait for the expiration of the time which they are to stay out of school, which will be decided by J. Schuyler Fox, principal of the school.

The suspensions came after Mr. Logan, a teacher in the High School, had complained to the principal that his class room was marked up badly as the result of a spring baseball practice with an ink bottle. None of the boys would admit to Mr. Fox who threw it but all say they had their hands on it some time or the other in its flight around the room.

The period of suspension is indefinite and the boys are eagerly waiting to hear the returns. The students who are under suspension are in the majority of cases post-graduates and seniors and they are as follows: Harry Carlon, Frank Abercrombie, Maxwell Baker, Joseph Gunn, Francis Beatty and Donald Flewelling.

MIDDLETOWN TO HAVE A $235,000 GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The Board of Education of Middletown Tuesday evening awarded the contract for building the central grammar school to the Moody Construction Company, of 90 West street, New York city, lowest of nine bidders on the general construction work of the building. The bid was $235,137.

The estimate is about $15,000 less than the Board of Education had contemplated and means that there will be approximately $40,000 remaining from the $256,000 appropriated by the voters to be used for equipping and furnishing the structure.

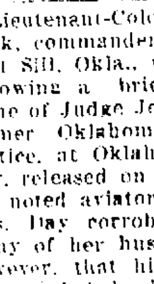
Mrs. Day corroborates the testimony of her husband, who stated, however, that his revolver accidentally exploded when he struck Beck on the head.



Mrs. Harry Leon Wilson, wife of the noted author, is said to have been the innocent cause of a fistic duel at Carmel, Cal., between her husband and Theodore Criley, landscape painter. Mrs. Wilson played opposite Criley in a theatrical production, provoking her husband to a rage of jealousy that caused him to challenge the painter to a fist fight, which Criley won.

Had to Fight Somebody.

An explorer who has just returned from the interior of Africa said he had discovered in a remote part of Africa a number of natives dressed in the familiar uniform of the metropolitan policemen. "I found," said the explorer, "that the cast-off uniforms had somehow got over there and had been sold to the natives. We gave them shoes, but they soon took them off and slung them round their necks as ornaments. On one occasion some natives came to our camp, and, through their chief, said: 'We don't want to fight you, and we don't want to fight your friends, but tell us whom we may fight.'"

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 6.—The stock market again showed a strong tone at the opening today, all the leading issues being in large demand. Studebaker started ⅝ higer at 117¾. U. S. Steel rose ¼ to 98 and American Locomotive was ⅝ higher at 112½. Marine Preferred showed a gain of ¾ at 74¾ and American International was ⅜ higher at 45⅜. Reading moved up ⅞ to 76⅞.

The market continued its broadening tendency, many stocks making gains from 1 to 3 points. The greatest gain was in Rutland Preferred which rose 10 points to 35¼. The steel industrials were influenced by reports of improved conditions in the trade and that group generally sold at new high prices for the year, U. S. Steel moving up ¾ to 98½ and Replogle Steel advancing four points to 36¾.

The market action was boiled in the afternoon with sales at 2 o'clock totalling over 1,200,000 shares. Mexican Petroleum rose 4¾ points to 128⅝. U. S. Steel touched a new high for the year at 98½ and then reacted to 97¾. New York, Ontario Western attracted attention with a gain of 3½ points to 30½, a new high for the year. Norfolk and Western went to its previous high, selling at 105¼. General Motors again lifted its previous high, improving 1 point to 13⅜.

The market closed irregular government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

Yonkers Has the Cuckoo.

A proud but truthful resident of Yonkers admitted that there were a lot of cuckoos there. He wasn't proud of the cuckoos, particularly. As far as cuckoos are concerned, his pride is strictly civic. If one must have cuckoos, he prefers the Swiss kind, which are vocal only when wound up and then only at intervals.

The Yonkers cuckoo doesn't have to be wound up. The imported eight-day cuckoo is a piker beside the Yonkers cuckoo. The Yonkers cuckoo stays awake half the night waiting for the dawn and each has the same pride in being the first to salute the earliest gleam of the sky that a farmer's wife has in getting her washing out before a neighbor's line is strung.

From the moment that the night becomes faintly luminous until about 9:35 a. m., the air is tremulous with cuckoos. From 9:35 to 10:05, the cuckoos knock off for lunch. Then they're at it again until dark. They yelp "cuck-oo" at every resident of Yonkers they see and even at strangers from Peekskill. When the street is utterly deserted, they murmur "cuck-oo, cuck-oo" just for practice.—New York Tribune.

Passing It On, as It Were.

Pat Rooney had just opened a new home-brew foundry, and as it was a rainy day there were quite a number of Pat's friends in the place seeking shelter from the storm. An Englishman was standing at the bar with a worried look on his face, which an Irishman named Mike noticed. Mike asked him what the trouble was. "This beer is awful," said the Englishman, "but I wouldn't dare let it stand for fear Pat would be insulted." "You're right," said Mike, sympathetically, "but I have a scheme. That fellow next to you has a raincoat on. Pour it into his pocket." "But," said the Englishman, "he is liable to catch me in the act." "Not a chance in the world," said Mike, with a chuckle. "I just poured mine into your pocket."—San Francisco Argonaut.

This artistic representation of "The Last Supper" was hand carved in mother of pearl by a native artist of Bethlehem, the birthplace of Christ. It took him two years to complete the work. The carving, said to be worth several thousand dollars has been brought to New York by William J. Hirten, an art connoisseur.

Joseph Donald Grafton, son of a Pittsburgh, Pa., millionaire, is charged by two women with having married and deserted them both within three weeks. Peggy Davis, seventeen-year-old "Follies" girl, critically ill in a New York hospital, claims that Grafton married her on December 10, 1921; Ellen Curley McIntyre, of Youngstown, Ohio, asserts that she was wedded to Grafton three weeks prior to that date. The young millionaire, alleged to have forsaken both girls, is being sought by police.

A probe of the nationwide strike of coal miners is being made by the house labor committee, looking to a solution of the differences between the workers and the operators. Seen here, right to left, are Representative Nolan, chairman of the house labor committee; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Frank Morrison and Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, and Representative Meyer London, of New York. This picture was taken after the first conference.

Crown Prince Otto, son of the late ex-Emperor Charles of Austria, has been named "king" of that country by the Legitimist Party, declare reports from Vienna. Prince Otto is ten years old. He is at Madeira, where his exiled father died. The naming of Otto as King is not taken seriously, inasmuch as the royal family was dethroned during the war. But the child is said to have royal rights in Hungary and Prince Otto may yet become involved in Europe's politics.

Old "Friends" Meet.

Mr. Winston Churchill's capture by the Boers in the South African campaign when he was a young correspondent, has often been described. A British armored train was wrecked at Chieveley, in Natal, and as Mr. Churchill tried to escape he was held up by a Boer on horseback with a leveled rifle. Sir Charles Coghlan, head of the Rhodesian delegation recently in London, has now added a curious sequel. He told a representative of the Cape Times that Mr. Churchill, in a reminiscent mood, described to him how, many years after, when he (Mr. Churchill) was a cabinet minister, he recounted the story to General Botha in London, and Botha said: "You were the man, then, eh? Why, I was the Boer on the horse."

FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Quaint Superstitions That Have Many Adherents in Various Parts of Rural England.

In Berkshire, London Tit-Bits says, it is stated that fits can be cured by wearing a ring made from the metal of five silver sixpences procured from five different bachelors, who must not know the purpose for which the coins will be used.

Another very quaint recipe is the use of a string of blue beads or a piece of uncooked bacon round the neck as a preventive of colds and sore throats.

To "cause love," all you have to do is to gather ten leaves of the hemlock, dry and powder them. Then mix it in the food or drink of the person you desire to love you.

For whooping cough take a mug of water from a running stream, against the current; give the child a drink, then throw the rest away with the current; repeat this three times before sunrise.

To remove warts tie up some pebbles in a bag with a piece of silver money and throw it on the road; whoever finds the bag and keeps the money to him the warts will go.

The tail of a black cat, if rubbed over the eye, will effect a speedy cure of a stye.

For a sore throat tie a thread of scarlet worsted round the throat and also round each wrist—this is believed in Ireland to be very effective. While for lumbago we only need to make a paste of shamrocks (pounded) mixed with butter and salt. This is rubbed all over the afflicted back and must not be rubbed off till the cure is perfected.

Great virtue is attributed to the briar, especially in cases of sprain or dislocation—the red-flowered species being the best to use. A strong twig is taken, about a yard long, and split evenly from end to end. The pieces are then held by two men with clean hands while a third waves his hands over the split twigs. If all is done correctly, the twigs seem endowed with life, rise up and approach each other till they touch. A piece should be cut off at the point of contact and bound firmly to the sprain.

Shackleton's Last Letter.

No death of recent years has touched the public with a greater sadness than that of Sir Ernest Shackleton. In this poignant tragedy, remarks the London Times, there is a deep sense of personal loss. Shackleton touched the national imagination; his vivid personality won all hearts. As Mr. John Quiller Rowett, who was mainly responsible for financing the Quest expedition, says, "Shackleton was such a generous soul—idealistic, impulsive, ready to help anybody in trouble. His last letter to me, dated from Rio de Janeiro, where the Quest was refitting, on December 18 last, gives a glimpse of the soul of this great Briton. Here is his letter:

"S. Y. Quest, Rio, Dec. 18, 1921.—My Dear John: One hundred and ten degrees in the shade! All the work is done and we are going. The next you will hear will be, please God, success. Should anything happen in the ice, it will have nothing to do with anything wrong with the ship. The ship is all right. . . .

"Never for me the lowered banner,
"Never the lost endeavor.
"Your friend, ERNEST."

Eliminating Rail Disasters.

Wireless telephone conversations between trains moving at the rate of forty miles an hour and the Paris central station, which have been achieved in the last few days, hold out a promise of greater safety for passengers, as well as a considerable diminution of intermediate signaling stations, says an exchange. Antennae constructed on top of an ordinary coach were in constant communication with other antennae between two telegraph poles midway of the experimental area and enabled the use of telegraph wires to carry the message to the receiving point. The voice of a train conductor could be heard clearly over a distance of fifty miles by the receiving station in Paris as the train passed each station or railroad siding. The Nord companies are extending the experiments as far as Calais. Wireless signaling from Paris as far as Rouen has been in use for several months and with complete satisfaction. Meanwhile the state lines are considering the elimination of absolute telephone service.

Still More So.

"Here is a queer piece in the paper," said Mrs. Johnson, in the midst of her reading. "It says that in Africa they have a home brew that one drink of it makes 'em walk backwards. Do you s'pose that's true?"

"I reckon likely," replied Gap John son of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "Gabe Gawkey took a horn or two of some dry licker in town tuther day, and two three hours afterwards I seed him about half way home, laying on his back in the middle of the big road drawing up first one foot and then the other, and singing 'Climbing up the Golden Stairs.'"—Kansas City Star.

Boys Took His Advice.

Robert Maynard of New Bedford caught a crowd of boys building a little snowman on the radiator cap of his automobile while it was standing at the curb. "Why don't you build a real one, boys?" he asked. When Mr. Maynard stepped out from his office later in the afternoon he saw a snowman five feet high on the back of his roadster, the head towered over the auto top and, despite the trend of the times, under the snowman's arm was a big green bottle.—Boston Globe.

Nature Leaks After That.

It has been estimated that at the present rate of consumption the green plants of the world would exhaust the air of carbon dioxide in about thirty years if it were not constantly being replaced.

WHAT AGITATES MR. SMITH

Business Man's Stenographers Never Divulged His Affairs, But His Wife Was Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Smith's first stenographer was Josephine. She wore thick glasses, she was tall and angular, she was at least forty, she had a wart on the back of her neck; but she took her work seriously, and though she knew all about Mr. Smith's business, she felt herself a sort of copartner with him and never told anything she knew.

The next stenographer was Marie. She painted, powdered, manicured and massaged. She wore the latest fashions. The telephone was busy oftenest with her personal calls; she danced most of the night, but was fresh for work the next day. She never told the secrets of the business, for they meant nothing to her.

Mary Margaret came next. She was an orphan; she wore sensible and inexpensive clothes, and she worked for her bread and butter. Work bored her, and so did Mr. Smith, but she never told what she knew about the business because eight hours a day was all she intended to allow her duties at the office to enter into her mind.

Grace Alice followed. She was fairly rapid, accurate and neat, but her strongest point was sympathy. She believed thoroughly in Mr. Smith and his business and helped with her ready intuitions, but when she left the office she transferred her sympathy to someone else, and never thought of her work. It mattered nothing to her with whom she sympathized, just so she had someone.

Ruby Anna came next. She managed to get by with her work, but she never really understood what it was all about, and she never risked talking to outsiders about things she did not understand.

What puzzles Mr. Smith is that never a stenographer told a secret about him or his business, and everything his wife knew about him and his work, all her relatives, friends and neighbors knew also.—Katherine Negley in Judge.

ANOTHER ANCIENT GILBOA CLAIM

Gilbert Heirs Produce Deed to Flowage Rights in Schoharie Creek for Which Light and Power Company Is Seeking to Recover Damages Caused by Reservoir Construction.

The phantoms of forgotten covenants in forgotten deeds haunt the banks of the Schoharie river. On Wednesday The Freeman printed an interesting account of the resuscitation of an old covenant in a deed given in 1836 to the Dutch Reformed Church of Gilboa under which the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the people who gave the deed claimed all the power that was awarded to the congregation, not only for the land upon which the church was built, but for the church edifice, a school house and parsonage upon it.

Now comes another old covenant to disturb the serenity of the Schoharie Reservoir and Shandaken Tunnel Commission composed of Senator Joseph D. Kelly of New York, Claud D. Mayham of Schoharie and Patrick J. Shea of Troy. It appeared Wednesday in the case of the Tri-County Light and Power Company, the only electric light plant in the Ashokan and Schoharie region, condemned by the city of New York. That company, of which Judge John P. Grant of Stamford is president, filed a claim against the city of New York for approximately $800,000 for the condemnation of its concrete dam, power plant, electric generating facilities and transmission lines. There have been many hearings before the commission, this week was fixed for the closing of the evidence, and final submission, when who should appear but Arthur A. Brown with a claim from the descendants of the family of Gilberts of Schoharie and Delaware counties, of which Judge Frank Gilbert and the wife of the late Dr. David Kennedy were members.

Mr. Brown produced an old deed given many years ago to a member of the Gilbert family, by which the right to use the waters of the Schoharie river for a foundry at a point near the present dam of the Tri-County Light and Power Company is situate, and a member of the Gilbert family who traced the genealogical descent of a large number of persons from the original grantee in that deed, he claimed that the descendents of the original Gilberts had an interest in the right to the flowage of the Schoharie river superior to that of the Tri-County Light and Power Company.

Judge Clearwater and Harry H. Flemming, who represented the company, said and produced witnesses to support their statement, that by the terms of the deed produced by Mr. Brown, the right to divert the waters of the Schoharie only continued so long as the foundry was operated on the site upon which it was constructed, that it had been abandoned over thirty years ago the machinery and apparatus sold, and the building permitted to rot down. Also they produced a witness who had lived at Gilboa for over fifty years, who testified the original Gilbert told him he abandoned the foundry because it didn't pay to keep it up, and that nothing had been done in the way of casting for over thirty years.

William Grogan, representing the corporation counsel, united with the judge and Mr. Flemming in opposing the claim of the Gilbert heirs, and said that it had already been passed upon and rejected by the commission and was totally destitute of any standing or legal significance.

Problem in Criticism.

Criticism presents to the creator a problem which is never solved. Criticism is, to the artist, a perpetual presence; or perhaps a ghost which he will not succeed in laying. If he could satisfy his mind that criticism was a certain thing, a good thing or a bad, a proper presence or an irrelevant, he might psychologically dispose of it. But he cannot.—Waldo Frank.
